Mrs. Alice Dalton Died Suddenly, July 13th.

Fabyan and Irma communities were greatly shocked on the evening of July 13th to hear that Mrs. Dalton had passed away in an Edmonton hospital.

Mrs. Dalton had been in poor health for some time, and two weeks previous had gone to Edmonton for special treatment for heart trouble, a malady which she had patiently suffered from for several years.

The previous word reaching her relatives was that she was doing fine and she had expected to return in a few days. However, it was not the Will of God that her suffering should be prolonged and on the eve of July 13th, while visiting with a friend, she complained of being too warm and feeling very tired. Some of the staff were called but with a smile to those at her bedside she passed quietly away to that peaceful sleep from which none ever wake to weep.

Alice Lucy New was born at Glamorgan, Wales, in the year 1892 on the 21st day of August and was 42 years of age at the time of her passing.

She came to Canada in 1907 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. New, and settled in the Irma district where the New family still reside.

In 1921 she became the bride of Mr. Wm. Dalton of Fabyan and has since resided on a farm in that district where little Dorothy, now 4 years old, was born and is left with her father to mourn the irreparable loss of the loving mother and devoted wife who has been called from their happy home.

There are also Mr. Wm. New, her father; Monte, a brother, and Elsie Whiteley, a sister in Avonlea, vicinity who will sadly miss the smiling face of the dear one who so often visited at their homes, and their sorrow will be shared by a wide circle of friends both at Irma and Fabyan where Mrs. Dalton took part to the extent of her strength in the social life of the community.

The funeral service was held at the Irma United church on July 16. The Rev. Geeson officiated. The remains were laid to rest in the Irma cemetery. The pall-bearers were the Messrs. Jim and Steve Thomson, Walter Adams, Wm. Goodwin, Collette and F. Ford, all friends of the past years. The casket and all available space in the church was banked with beautiful floral offerings which bespoke the great esteem held for the deceased, and was as follows:

Will and Dorothy, Dad Monte and Dollie, Elsie, Gordon, Billie and Bobbie Whiteley; Bob Dalton and family; Jack Dalton, Robert Dalton, Bert and Jack, Mr. and Mrs. B. Craig, Mrs. Marie Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Craig, Avonlea U.F.W.A. Ladies' Club; Harmony U.F.W.A. Ladies' Club; Battle Heights School Club; Mr. and Mrs. Hallett and family; Mrs. Hawcroft, Elizabeth and Archie McDermid; Walter Adams, Nellie L. Martin, Hugh Adams and family;

L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. Celebrate "12th" at Wainwright

Most all the members of the Irma L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. with a good following of friends, took to the sports at Wainwright on July 12th. The day was ideal and everyone enjoyed the good program of sports that went to make a full day.

The parade from the Masonic hall to the grounds was led by the band and was at least half a mile long with six different lodges represented. It took three ball diamonds to keep the ball rolling and Irma did their stuff in bringing home first money. The boys' intermediates trimmed the Wainwright hall tossers to the tune of 10-3. Five teams of girls entered in the softball games and the fans sure saw some snappy playing and every one did their share of cheering on the home teams. Irma girls first played Burnside which they trimmed in fine style with a score of 10-7, and the final brought them up with Cappy Kidd's Pirates. This proved a real game as the teams were well matched. The score, when the rain came up preventing further play, was 7-3 in favor of Irma Bluebirds. The tug-of-war between Irma and Wainwright Lodge proved real exciting and Irma managed by united effort to pull the other team well over the blue line. So summing it all up, Irma sure brought home the bacon.

At 2 p.m. a good portion of the crowd gathered around the band stand to listen to the speeches, first of which was by President M. L. Wright, of Irma, and one who is well known to Irma, so was doubly enjoyed. Following this came Mr. Ross, P.G.W.M. of Alberta, after which Mrs. Botsford, P.G.W.M. of Alberta, who spoke very beautifully on the aims and efforts of the L.O.B.A.

Everyone who knew him missed our county Master—Mr. James Jackson, who was too ill to be present.

The day was brought to a close with a picture show and dance.

Sedgewick Cons. U.F.A. Ass'n Hold 14th Annual Convention

The fourteenth annual convention of the Sedgewick U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. Constituency Association was held in the Elks hall, Viking, on Monday, July 16th.

The convention opened at two p.m. with Chas. F. Hayes, of Strome, president of the association, presiding, and Frank Grandage, of Loughheed, secretary.

There were 14 delegates from the U.F.A. and five from the U.F.W.A. present, representing 27 locals, besides visitors.

Mr. Dubonnet, of Sedgewick, favored with two baritone solos which were greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Zipperer, U.F.W.A. director, gave a brief report of the work of that organization. She told of the efforts that the organization had made in regard to having laws put on the statutes books requiring both parties produce health certificates before marriage. They were now going further and asking for affidavits.

She thought that state health insurance, larger educational units would in the future be a reality.

She spoke touchingly of ex-Premier Brownlee and in the case would just as soon believe one as the other.

Mr. A. G. Andrews, M.L.A., was the next speaker, and gave an account of the last session of the legislature. He gave it as his opinion that there would be no provincial election this year but that the new cabinet would carry on until next year.

He spoke of the Industries Act that had been asked for by the retail merchants on account of unfair competition from chain stores. If put in operation he thought it would be a benefit to those concerned.

In speaking of the telephone system he stated that the government had spent only one and one-half million dollars on it, and during the depression the rural lines had not received the proper attention on account of falling revenues.

He dwelt at length on some of Mr. Howson's charges in regard to mismanagement of justice, homestead regulations being restricted, and that he voted against Mr. Howson's motion on telephones as the only motion Mr. Howson had made in regard to the telephones was contained in a virtual motion of non-confidence in the government.

The Wray report of March, 1920, had made certain recommendations in regard to raising telephone rates and making smaller units of the rural portions, but this had not been acted upon until 1926. Now in 1934 the government is trying to sell portions of the rural lines to farmers.

Other matters dealt with were the public accounts, motor vehicle act, amendments to the liquor act, public highway program, the increase in the public debt, and the agricultural department and department of lands and mines.

His address was quite lengthy and covered a great many problems, and the speaker was given an attentive hearing.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Charles P. Hayes, of Strome.
1st vice-president—Mrs. Wm. Hal-lum.
2nd vice-president—Gordon Reeves, Directors (north of C.P.R. tracks) Robt. Hanson, Viking; Ernest Koehli, Dayland.
Directors (south of C.P.R. tracks) Mrs. T. Leslie, Merna; I. H. Lewis, Killam.

A number of resolutions were passed but as we did not receive a copy for publication in time for this issue they will appear later.

NEW TREASURER

Hon. J. R. Love, who, in the re-organization of the late Brownlee government, was appointed provincial treasurer. The new minister is U.F.A. member for the Wainwright constituency.

of his statements made at the afternoon meeting.

Mr. Lucas, M.P. for Camrose federal riding, was the next speaker, and received a very favorable reception. He said that he would necessarily be brief in his remarks as Mr. Headley was present and no doubt the crowd was more anxious to hear about the policies of the new provincial cabinet.

Mr. Lucas said that we all agreed that there was something wrong, and asked what was wrong?

He clearly outlined that agriculture, industry, transportation, communication systems, and labor had not fallen down in their functions, but that disease and the monetary system had failed in this depression. It was a question of money. The best minds in the world were puzzled, even the bankers who had been considered super-men had fallen down.

He expressed the opinion that the past session of the federal parliament was one of the most important since confederation. Several very important acts had been passed chiefly the Central Bank Act, the Marketing Bill, and the Debt Adjustment Act. Mr. Lucas averred that the gold standard was a myth, and that we were going to get away from it.

The Central Bank, stated Mr. Lucas, would be a semi-public and private bank. He felt that under private ownership better men would be secured to manage the bank. He denied voting against public ownership of the Central Bank. Mr. Lucas read several paragraphs of the provisions of the Central Bank Act, Marketing Bill, and the Debt Adjustment Act, which he felt would be of untold benefit to the public if properly managed and put into operation. The U.F.A. group had supported Premier Bennett in these matters, said Mr. Lucas, while Liberal opposition, led by Mr. King, had been more or less cantankerous and divided on the issues.

Mr. Hoadley was then introduced. He went to the defence of the telephone system, stating that not one-tenth of the expense of this department had been incurred by the Brownlee government, and implied that the former Liberal government was mostly to blame for the state of affairs. It would take $4,500,000 to put the line in good shape again, and that it cost $700,000.00 to keep the 10,000 phones now on the system in operation. (Here he was asked a question from the audience, but replied that all he would answer would be only "intelligent" questions.) After this, Mr. Hoadley, like the other speakers, complained of the unfairness of the weekly and daily press of the province. The Viking News editor and articles about the disreputable state of the rural telephone lines came in for special censure. However, he did not read the article in question from the Viking News and left the audience in a quandary as to what it was all about, aiming to leave the impression that this paper did not know what it was talking about. The figures quoted in the article (which we will reprint next week for lack of space this week) were taken from the Wray report, March, 1920, to the government, and if Mr. Hoadley does not believe these figures, he is asking a

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. E. Clay Are Honored at "Shower"

(Too Late for Last Week)

Sponsored by Harmony Local U. F.W.A. with the generous support of the personnel of Coulman's orchestra and the community, a very enjoyable shower and dance was held in Avonlea school on the evening of July 9th, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. E. Clay, of Paradise Valley.

Mr. Stanton Coulman kindly acted as master of ceremonies and in his capable management is credited much of the success of the evening.

Shortly before the supper hour, Mr. and Mrs. Clay were asked to come forward and a miniature wedding party, including Doris Shotts and Freddie Meyer as bride and groom, and Irene McFayden and Ray Marshall as bridesmaid and groomsmen, appeared and marched to the stage which was suitably decorated with streamers, wedding bells and a profusion of cut flowers and from a well dressed many beautiful and useful gifts and presented them to Mrs. Clay, who thanked the donors individually. Mr. Clay also thanked the gathering for their kindness and hospitality.

A short program followed, vocal duet by Margaret and Howard Riddle and solos by Mr. Clay and H. Riddle which were much enjoyed and responded by encores. Supper was then served and immediately following a wedding cake was placed on a stand in front of the bride who cut the cake and served a portion to the huge crowd of friends who, by their presence, indicated the high esteem in which she is held in our community.

Dancing concluded the evening's program, the guests departing after many expressions of good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Clay in their new home.

Alberta Crop Report No. 7

Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, July 14.

All crops in Alberta are at present making good progress under more or less ideal growing conditions, with the exception of the east-central section where early drought and the hoppers have left their mark, and where July rains have not been as heavy or frequent as in other areas. In this section the grain crops will be light.

Over most of the province the first half of July has brought considerable moisture, the rains having varied from occasional showers at intervals of a few days in many parts of southern Alberta to frequent and heavy rain storms in central and northern areas.

The result is a very satisfactory supply of moisture which verges on super-abundance in some of the central and northern districts where the need of a period of warmer weather is beginning to be felt, and where an extension of the present rainy spell would mean a somewhat serious retarding of crop development.

The past two weeks have been characterized by violent electrical disturbances and severe hail storms over a portion of central Alberta, where heavy damage has been done to crops in limited areas, this reaching as high as 75 to 100 per cent in individual cases. The districts chiefly affected lie between Red Deer and Edmonton and east towards the Saskatchewan border. There has also been some damage in a few isolated districts in Southern Alberta.

The fear of damage by frost is indicated in some of the reports from the west-central and northern districts, but while the temperature has dropped to low points in one or two of these districts, the damage has thus far not been severe or extensive.

Most of the wheat in the province is headed out and generally speaking is showing a good healthy stand, with rank growth in some of the central districts. Coarse grains are also heading out and showing good progress. Hay is progressing, and the aggregate crop will be fairly substantial, although light in number of districts. Late-feed crops give promise of quite heavy yields, and there is every indication of a very much improved feed situation this fall.

There appears to be a more confident feeling among the rural population in the province, consequent upon the greatly improved general crop outlook. A very real interest has been shown in the various field days held. There is a gratifying demand among farmers in central and northern districts for Yorkshire pigs, indicating the increased determination to improve the quality of hogs. Cattle are in good condition, but producers are somewhat anxious over the proposed restrictions in shipments of cattle to the British market. Farmers in central Alberta finishing cattle under the rancher-farmer contract system, have marketed their finished product in most cases to very good advantage, and have realized fairly well on the deal. "Cream" production has shown a marked increase for the first part of the year, even over last year's high record. Prices have been maintained on a fairly satisfactory basis, but weakness in outside markets has been reflected in somewhat lower price levels here.

JARROW JOTTINGS

A few people from Jarrow and vicinity attended the U.F.A. district convention held at Viking last Monday. With all the political opposition the U.F.A. is still much alive. The large hall was filled to capacity in the evening to hear the speakers, among them were Mr. Lucas, M.P., and the Hon. Geo. Hoadley, minister of health.

Mrs. E. Peet, Ethel and Glen are visiting with Mrs. Peet's daughter, Mrs. Cochrane, at Chigwell, Alta.

Mr. Robt. Routledge, a recent graduate of the Camrose Normal, won a scholarship which entitles him to free tuition in the summer school at Edmonton.

The parents and young brother of Mrs. Jim Miller have moved here from Hay Lake and expect to make Jarrow their permanent home. They are residing with Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller.

The parents' association of the Jar-row guides held a successful tea in Jar-row last Saturday. Proceeds amounted to about $17.00.

Mrs. Jessie McCracken and Mrs. R. Herron were visitors at the Manse on Monday. Mrs. McCracken expects to sail for the old land on the 28th of July to make her future home in Scotland.

A large crew of men are working in the gravel pit at Kinsella, so there is hope that our highway will be gravelled in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Clark, of Trail, B.C., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Allen Harper.

lot of people to accept his statements. He read extracts from other papers that were in his opinion more favorable.

He digressed for a few minutes to pay his respects to Premier Bennett and concurred in the report made by Mr. Lucas.

Mr. Hoadley outlined a scheme of health services, state medicine, and larger health units for all parts of the province. There were plenty of doctors and enough hospital beds now but they were not all in the right location to serve the public efficiently.

A $10,000,000.00 scheme that would cost each family $34.00 per year was now under consideration which, if put in operation, would lessen the average cost of health service under the system that now exists. He hoped that the new government in 1936 would put the O.K. on it and give it a trial.

The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

PUPILS ADVISED TO PREPARE ENTRIES FOR SCHOOL FAIR

The Irma School Fair will be held this year on Saturday, Sept. 8th.

Pupils are advised to prepare their exhibits as far as possible during the holidays.

Look over your school fair bulletin and make up as many entries as you can.

On account of the fair being held so soon after the opening of school it is very important to make all the preparation possible during August.

United States Joins The I.L.O.

More than ordinary significance attaches to recent decision of the American Congress to apply for full membership of the International Labor Organization at Geneva, usually referred to as the I.L.O. Not only will accession of the United States add considerably to the prestige that organization now enjoys, but, bringing as it will the U.S. into direct confrontation with this important branch of League of Nations' activity, the move will do much to restore prestige lost by the parent body through recent defections, notably that of Japan.

Press despatches have revealed little of the background, few of the motives, behind this change of front on the part of the Washington government. It is true, of course, membership of the International Labor Organization does not involve endorsement of the League covenant, nor does it entail any political commitments to the League as such. In fact, the U.S. desire to provide adequate safeguards against the "foreign entanglements" that country has so rigorously eschewed since the war, is exemplified in the act of Congress which specifically declares that the United States, by membership in the I.L.O. shall assume "no obligations under the covenant."

This, of course, is possible. The International Labor Organization, like the World Court upon whose bench the United States long has been represented, is an autonomous section of the League of Nations. Membership in either or both is possible without acceptance of the covenant. Germany, as a matter of fact, was an active, full-fledged member of the I.L.O. for six years before becoming a member of the League of Nations. The connection between the organization and the League is derived not from the covenant but from the charter of the I.L.O., which is Part XIII. of the Treaty of Versailles.

The International Labor Organization is, however, much closer to the League than is the World Court for the reason that it is, essentially, a means of getting international legislation enacted, or treaties negotiated, as is the League itself. The heart of the League system is its permanent mechanism for continuous international negotiation, and the I.L.O. parallels this machinery throughout, in its limited field of social questions.

The importance of the United States' decision to join the International Labor Organization, therefore, can best be deduced by considering it in relation to the economic problems created by varying standards of living, hours of labor and rates of wages, in nations now competing for foreign markets, and also by contrasting the present action with Washington's past attitude towards the Geneva labor office.

Hitherto, the United States has been far colder to the I.L.O. than to any other branch of League activity. Until one year ago, the United States government would have nothing whatever to do with the labor organization, but now, without any parade or ballyhoo, Congress has accepted, virtually without dissent, the proposal to apply for membership. This will involve representation on the permanent secretariat at Geneva and ultimate appointment of American representatives to the personnel of the central office.

Psychologically, the action of Washington will have more far-reaching effects. It will give Japan, Germany and Italy "furious to think" for, if President Roosevelt can persuade Congress to make so complete a volte face in so short a time in connection with one great section of League activity, it follows that but little additional pressure would be required to convert his legislators to the idea of accepting the League covenant. Despite recent reticences, and the insistence upon non-political safeguards, American opinion relative to the League is undergoing a change—and that change is not so far short of accepting League membership as to make that end remote. If it comes to pass that the United States enter the League, that body will immediately assume grander and nobler proportions in the eyes of the world, and the dreams of those who called it into existence will be within sight of fulfillment.

China Holds Cricket Fights

Sportsmen Will Pay Ten Dollars For Good Fights

A great effort is being made in China to stamp out cricket-fighting. It is being made as great a legal offence as opium smoking, and punishable with equally severe sentences. Despite the efforts made to stop the "sport," an enormous amount of it goes on. Chinese will pay as much as $10 for a good fighting cricket, and many make it a business to breed them and train them for fighting, in the same way as cocks used to be trained for the old English sport of cock-fighting. The crickets face each other in elaborate bamboo "rings" down the middle of which a glass slide runs, through which the fighters glare at each other until such time as their ire is sufficiently aroused for the attack. Large stakes change hands during the fights.

New Process Being Tried To Dredge, Gold From Fraser River

The golden wealth in the sands of the Fraser river, which has till now proved largely elusive to the efforts of man, and of which there is said to be enough to pay the national debt of Canada many times over, is to be attacked this summer with a new type of dredge, and with what appears to be every prospect of success.

The structure, now nearing completion, is the largest work of its kind ever attempted on the Pacific coast, incorporating for the first time anywhere in the world an entirely new process as applied to gold dredging.

Built under the engineering advice and supervision of Hume Robertson, placer mining engineer, who has had 20 years' experience in that kind of work with British companies in the Malaya Peninsula, the great bulk may now be seen assuming final shape at the shipyards of B.C. Marine Engineers and Shipbuilders Limited.

Hydraulic pumps, with suction strength of 200 pounds to the square inch, created by two 500-h.p. motors will raise the sands from the bottom of the river and the complete process of washing and refining will be completed upon the dredge.

Capacity, with the present equipment, is placed at 12,500 cubic yards a day, but provision has been made for double the present sluicing area by the addition of an upper deck, on an incline of 13 feet from bow to stern.

The whole operation will be electrically driven with individual motors and control switches on the bridge towards the bow of the structure. Present estimates indicate an operating cost of not more than two cents a cubic yard.

Hydro-electric plant is to be constructed on Jones Creek, near where the dredge will be put into operation, and will generate 2,000 horse-power. It is understood that work upon this phase of the undertaking is to start at once.

If operation of the first dredge proves successful—and every possible safeguard against failure seems to have been taken—the company will proceed to the construction of other dredges of similar model.

Smaller units will be needed in some parts of the river under lease, but all will incorporate the present equipment with such improvements as practice may suggest.

Problem In South Africa

Many Pupils With Scottish Names Speak No English

As in Quebec so in South Africa there are people with pure Scottish names like Campbell, Fraser and MacDonald, who speak little or no English. Dr. S. H. Bloomfield, Director of Education of the Orange Free State in the Union of South Africa, remarked after an investigation of Quebec school conditions.

Dr. Pellissier went to Quebec to study the question of bilingualism and how it is handled in Quebec. In South Africa they have the same problem, the majority of the pupils speaking Dutch and the minority English. They also are faced with the difficulty of educating children in the outlying sections, as in Quebec.

Dr. Pellissier said the children with the Scottish names are the descendants of settlers who married Boer women. They gave their names to their wives but the mothers passed their own language to their offspring.

At Least Three Will Be Commemorated During 1934

That 1934 is a year of anniversaries was recalled by Victor Morris, chairman of the Montreal committee on the Jacques Cartier observances, to the Quebec Women's Institutes convention.

In 1534 occurred the discovery of Canada by Jacques Cartier; in 1634, the extension of the colony by the founding of Three Rivers; in 1734, the opening of the first road between Quebec and Montreal; and in 1834, the granting of its charter to Toronto.

Some Long Sleeps

But Record Of Rip Van Winkle Still Stands

A Huddersfield man has had no sleep for eight weary years. Not even morphine can give him an hour of real sleep. How he must envy such a man as W. Foxley, pot-maker to the Mint, who fell asleep on April 27th, 1846, and slept serenely for fourteen days and fifteen nights.

Fourteen days is only a nap compared with the exploits of some sleepers. A German civil servant named Arnheim, forty-five years old, slipped one evening as he got out of a train and knocked his head on the pavement. He was taken home and put to bed. The doctors said there was no concussion or serious injury. Next morning he was still asleep, and he slept for two years and four months.

He was a wreck when at last he woke, yet in the end he recovered. There was the famous Marguerite Bevan, "the Sleeping Woman of Thessalon," who was thrown into a trance-like sleep by a fright and slept for nineteen years and six months. Then she slowly roused, was able to talk, but she was wasted to a skeleton, and died five months later.

The record Rip Van Winkle is an American, a farmer called Harms. He came in one evening, tired after a long day's work, went to bed and slept for twenty-six years. It was possible to rouse him to take food, but he could not stay awake more than five minutes. Like the French woman sleeper, he wasted away and died.

French Company Will Survey Bear Lake

If Report Is Satisfactory Capital Will Be Invested

A vast amount of French capital will be invested in development in the Great Bear Lake mining district, providing that a survey to be made this summer by Dr. Edmund Bruet, who arrived at Edmonton from Paris, proves satisfactory.

Dr. Bruet, answering questions which were interpreted by Paul Jervin, former French consul at Edmonton, stated that there was no question of large scale development being undertaken if his report recommends such action.

Dr. Bruet is vice-president and director of Omiyumi, a large French company which is interested in mineral resources all over the world. It has organized a Canadian branch which would carry on the work in the north country.

The company is interested in gold, silver, platinum, and any of the other mineral discoveries in the far north.

Also representing the department of natural resources at Paris, Dr. Bruet also will study the habits and conditions of the Indian tribes in the north. He also expects to take back to Paris specimens of plants life and also insects found in the north country.

May Join League

By Doing So Russia Would Gain Confidence Abroad

Russia, it is said, plans to enter the League of Nations, and is only delaying to decide what manner of entry would leave it the least explaining to do as to why it stayed out so long.

A chivalrous desire to help keep peace in Europe is credited to Moscow, no doubt correctly. But there is shrewdness, as well as chivalry, in the move. Stalin has troubles enough, without having to keep a watchful eye always on the western front.

In particular he has occasion to focus attention on the far end of his dominion, in which quarter Japan is carving out a place for itself in the Oriental sunshine without much regard for what Russia may want.

Joining the League would be for Russia the next thing to making a general treaty of inoffensiveness with Europe, and leave the Soviet directorate free to pay attention to urgent matters in the Far East.

Japan undoubtedly sacrificed a measure of world confidence when it quit the League. Russia would correspondingly gain confidence abroad if it joined the League and thus associated itself with the proclaimed purposes of that organization.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Turns Page In History

British Girl Retains Nationality Although Married To Frenchman

An English girl of 21 has turned a new page in the story of English women's fight for equal rights with men.

For pretty Ina Ginn, of Stanmore, Middlesex, has become Mme.—or rather Mrs. Lucien Albert of Paris—and retained her British nationality. She is the only Englishwoman to have married a Frenchman—or any foreigner—and remained British.

Shirley told of how she wrote to the Home Secretary on her engagement, explaining her patriotic desire; of the long negotiations with French and British authorities.

She went to Paris to be married—on Boxing Day. Since then, presumably, she has had no nationality—until now.

She displayed the new British passport in her married name, which she has just received. Written in by hand was read: "British subject under the provision of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1933, wife of a French citizen."

Machine Reads Minds

Graph Paper Takes Record Of Reactions On Brain

The old story about the walls of Jerry-build houses being so thin that you could hear your neighbor changing his mind seems likely to come very near the truth. A machine invented by Dr. Alexander Cannon records any mental reaction, and consists of flexible tubes which are attached to a human subject. The reactions of the brain are recorded on graph paper. Simple emotions like surprise, love, hate, are recorded, and the machine also registers the mental fatigue, the capacity of the mind, reaction to tension or concentration, suicidal tendencies, and whether the subject is telling the truth or lying. Among other things, it shows that waltz music is soothing, and that it relieves asthma by inducing regular breathing. It is also claimed that it proves telepathy to be a physical fact.

The crack shot of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, according to the annual report of that force tabled in the House of Commons, is Acting Sergeant D. E. Forslund, who serves in "K" (Alberta) division.

Not only does Sergeant Forslund excel with the rifle, but he also is a sure marksman with the revolver. He is the present holder of the Connaught cup. While attending an instructional class at Regina, he fired a course and secured a possible 240 points.

Indian Rope Trick A Myth

Occult Committee Says No One Has Ever Seen It

As the result of a solemn inquest held by the Occult committee of the Magic Circle—a group of bona fide scientists—the Indian rope trick today appears under a headline officially chiselled "myth."

Nobody, evidence before the committee showed, has ever performed the rope trick—wherein an Indian fakir is supposed to toss a limp rope vertically into the air, whereafter a boy nimbly climbs out of view into the heavens. Nobody could be found who had seen the trick done. So, in effect, the occultists found that neither the rope nor the story will "stand up." The group has offered $2,500 to anyone who will perform the feat.

Lord Amthill, once viceroy of India, presided over the committee's meeting.

How India was scoured and large rewards were offered futilely for a rope trickster when King George and Queen Mary toured India early in their reign was told by Sidney Clarke, chairman of the Magic Circle.

Even the great Nizam of Hyderabad, with limitless resources, was unable to locate a juggler who could do the rope trick. When asked to provide one for a giant garden party, related his friend, Sir Michael O'Dwyer. In 25 years in India, Sir Michael never found anyone who had seen the trick.

Harry Price, director of the National physical laboratory, said he had collected a library of 12,000 books about magic, and not one contained any genuine evidence about the trick.

Sir Francis Griffin, formerly an inspector-general of police in India, imputed belief in the rope trick to the power of suggestion, like the impressionable American lady of travel who said the most remarkable thing she had seen in all India was the sun setting behind the Aga Khan.

British Aviator On Visit

Any Mollison Made Short Stay In New York

Feeling "very fit" Amy Mollison, British aviatrix, arrived on the liner Majestic for a short visit in New York.

Since the crash in Connecticut of the plane in which she and her husband, James Mollison, made a westward crossing of the Atlantic in 1933, she had done little flying, she said, "just a little for my own pleasure."

She said that she and Mollison were looking forward with enthusiasm to the England-Australia air races next October in which they will participate.

Just Moving Again

When Mark Twain was a young and struggling newspaper writer in San Francisco, a lady of his acquaintance saw him one day with a cigar box under his arm looking in a shop window.

"It isn't that," said Mark, "I am moving again."

SYNOPSIS

Camilla, Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. After a party at which she and Peter are married, Camilla, who the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla sit off in the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Camilla urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses, and the quarrel is over. Camilla has gone from the studio. Avis Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $1,000. Peter takes his exhibit and asks Avis and Camilla for suggestions as to a name for it. Camilla suggests "Eager Youth," and Avis "Inspiration." Peter adopts the latter title and Camilla heartbreak goes to Peter's studio for quiet and to think. Peter and Avis follow later, and as the lights are turned on, see the statue has been shattered to pieces. Avis accuses Camilla of doing this, and Camilla, stunned by the disaster, and hurt and horrified by the accusation, faints.

At Camilla's suggestion, Peter enters as his exhibit a statue he had sculptured especially for her as a wedding gift. They name it "Land of Hope."

CHAPTER LI

Avis managed to visit the exhibit alone with John Danforth on the day before the final vote would be cast for the winner of the Paris scholarship. She had made the coincidence seem casual enough and her interest in art had elicited her uncle's unqualified approval from the beginning. His own sons and only daughter had evinced none of his aesthetic appreciation, which was one of the few disappointments of his life. So, when his niece not only patronized the exhibition but actually won her degree at National, he was immensely proud, and sympathetic with her plans and interests.

So generous was his measure of approval that he had purchased one of her best paintings and hung it in his library, though he had to admit to himself that the picture had sold elsewhere for a song. But he advocated that praise stimulates effort and encourages ambition.

He was particularly noted for his philanthropy to talent, and not a small part of the Paris scholarship fund was responsible to his generosity; but he never permitted his left hand to suspect what kept his right hand so busy.

"The judges have no easy task," he can tell you that," he confided to Avis at the exhibit. "It was difficult even to eliminate the entries."

"Do only beauty and perfection of detail enter into the consideration?" she asked, seriously.

"Oh no, there are many points to be considered."

"Such as—"

"Subject matter, position, execution of material—"

"Does the thought behind the object—the reason for the creation, its originality—mean anything?"

"Indeed, it means a very great deal. Is there a piece here in which you vision a purpose, a story?"

"Oh, yes, a splendid one, Uncle John. Stand just here and look at that group over there, third from the end. Doesn't it tell you a dramatic story?"

"Yes, I remember it well in the original sketch. There was no question about entering it, I recall. Undoubtedly, it is one of the best. But there are so many among the best."

"But what other one tells so poignant a story of life?" she insisted. "There is the seagull—beautiful, but—just a seagull; a splendid likeness of Andrew Havoc—after all, just the portrait of a man, those nude figures titled 'Love,' about which there is nothing individual; the boy on a hill in a storm, the modernistic conception of 'The Kiss'—but who would want a kiss like that?" she smiled.

"I suspect," he looked at her awfully, "that you are campaigning for a vote for that young man of yours."

"Only because he deserves it," Avis defended.

"I don't doubt that," he agreed, readily. "Well, my dear, if it will relieve your anxiety and you will keep the secret to yourself, he already had my vote from the beginning. I might say that my opinion could have wavered between that and the Havoc portrait, but since there had to be some dividing factor, your interest in Peter Anson might as well be it. I see nothing unethical about that. It is merely a matter of matching points, and as you say, the vision and the story behind that group of immigrants should be favored. But don't hope too much. My vote is only one of seven, you know."

She hugged his arm affectionately. "One of seven is better than none. I am glad to know that Peter will have one vote, anyway. That will draw attention to his work, at least. And you might be able to influence a good sale for him," she suggested, covertly.

"Perhaps I can," he agreed, with an amused smile.

Meanwhile, the results on Camilla's work were progressing rapidly. Wheatheart Cereal sales had doubled within a fortnight, production was speeded up, the company was one of few in the city calling back its former employees. Negotiations were being made with a national radio network to broadcast a Tiny Tot series for a child's half-hour program. Consultations, plans, discussions, were in order.

Camilla was the central figure. Her brain whirled with the exhilaration of so much attention and approbation, even while it functioned calmly and clearly with the execution of her plans.

Finally, it was decided that she should prepare the stories, being the only person familiar with the characteristics and activities of her diminutive people. Her salary would be doubled and an additional sum paid for each story. These would be comparatively easy for her to produce, because they would follow the same action as appeared in the advertisements. "The work would involve only a little more time, which she could now spare from her drawing board, and her remuneration would be doubled thereby."

Then, the most astonishing development of all was presented to her. The radio manager insisted that the obvious person to present the Tiny Tots, by air, to her juvenile audience, was the author herself, Camilla Anson.

Camilla protested, overwhelmed by the possibility. "But I can't do everything," she objected, bewildered. "How can I do ad copy, write manuscripts and broadcast two days each week?"

"It is a pretty large order, but you can do it," the advertising manager encouraged. "You will have a secretary to attend to everything except your most personal work, and the broadcasting after the first few experiences will become very natural to you. We can arrange for the national broadcast from here instead of from the New York studios."

So it was arranged, and Camilla returned to her apartment that evening so thrilled and bewildered and delighted that she couldn't decide whether to laugh or cry. She summoned Peter and, secure in his arms, tried each outlet of her emotions.

He held her close, scarcely believing what his ears heard; that his Camilla had become a national figure in her field, almost overnight. He had recognized her talent from the beginning, but to have the world recognize her so quickly was a revelation and an enigma at the time.

"Why, precious!" he exclaimed, holding her off to gaze into her flushed face, "I shan't be able to afford a wife like you any longer."

"Peter, don't say that!" she laughed happily. "None of it would be any good at all, without you. And if you don't want me to do it—I won't."

"You mean that?" incredulous. She met his eyes bravely. "I do, Peter."

He drew her again into his embrace. "My darling, how could I deny you the right to take such an opportunity when I can't take care of you? Some day—perhaps—his arms relaxed about her and his words became impatient. "Oh, I don't know. I've always talked about what I am going to do, while you have kept quiet—and done it!"

That old expression of haunting doubt and chagrin clouded his face and the monster of jealousy gripped indolently at his heart. He tried valiantly to shake it off, but its hold was tenacious. He sank into a chair, listlessly.

He was on her knees beside him, instantly, as if she had leaped a widening chasm in desperation. Her arms clung to him. "Peter, dear Peter, tell me you don't want me to go on with this! Tell me the truth!" she pleaded. "I want to do just what you wish for me, what your love will let me do. I don't want to obey anyone or have anything except you and your love."

He was instantly contrite, tender. "Why, if I could plan your life for you, I couldn't wish it to be more perfect. You don't think I'd be a dog in the manger, do you?" he demanded, with a tremulous attempt at mirth. "I guess I'm just so proud of you and glad for you that I don't know how to act—don't know what I'm doing."

"Are you sure?" anxiously.

"Why, of course. Tell you what, every day you broadcast, I'll tune in and get more inspiration from hearing your voice while it speaks to the whole nation than I could get a dozen other ways. I'll say to myself, 'That's your wife, you see, worthy pup. She did that all by herself and in no time. Get yourself to work and deserve her.'"

With such gay jesting and repeated assurances, he convinced her of his approval, with this reservation, "Of course, if that day ever comes when I can match your salary, Mrs. Anson, you will be expected to meet the terms of our original agreement."

"That day can't be too soon for me," she declared, earnestly.

Marvels Of The Heavens

Astronomer Gives Some Idea Of Age Of Sky

Sir James Jeans, the astronomer, unfolded some marvels of the heavens in a lecture at the Royal Institution recently. Here are some of them: Altogether there are 100 million stars. They are scattered round in the shape of a gigantic cartwheel. This wheel of worlds goes round with majestic slowness. Each revolution takes 250,000,000 years. During the whole of the civilized epoch the wheel of worlds has only moved as much as the hour hand of a clock moves in one second. Yes—and this will give you some idea of how old the skies are—the wheel of worlds shows evidence of having gone round thousands of times.

Canadian Hardwood

An increase of 100 per cent. in sales of Canadian hardwood to Great Britain for the first three months of this year has been reported. The figures are placed at 1,200,000 cubic feet this year compared with 600,000 cubic feet during the same period in 1933. Canadian hardwood is being used in increasing quantities in Great Britain for flooring, furniture, and the manufacture of automobile bodies.

A process by which wool is rendered itches and shrinkless has been invented.

The New Diana

Fast Mail 'Plane Of Imperial Airways Well Named

Endurance feats like those of Mrs. Mollison and Miss Jean Batten will soon cease to have any good excuse. When Miss Amy Johnson flew to Australia in twenty days the regular air line ended at Karachi, and she was continuing along a route where no woman had flown before. Miss Batten, taking the same trail in the same type of aeroplane, also had some reason for enduring the strain of long days alone in the air. She had not seen her father in New Zealand for a long time and she wanted to reach him quickly. She reached Darwin in fifteen days. A few months hence the mails will need only fourteen days for the journey from London to the great cities in the south of Australia. Instead of travelling, as these two women pilots did, at a speed of eighty miles an hour, the mails will be taken in the new Diana air line at a speed of 145 miles an hour.

Four years ago Mrs. Mollison herself might have been dubbed the new Diana, making her conquests with the aid of horse power in the place of dogs, but leading the chase in otherwise solitary state for the edification of the multitude. Her position as the maker of the fastest time for women pilots between England and Australia had stood unchallenged for four years. Now Miss Batten has displaced her by the simple expedient of spending less time on the ground. There was no need to prove that engine and aeroplane would stand such treatment. Mr. C. W. A. Scott and others had driven similar airplanes much faster along the same route. Nor was it impossible to obtain faster aircraft for such a journey. The flight clearly was a test mainly of stamina in the pilot, made at the best time of the year for flying and along a route which is nearly ready for the operation of regular mail services. In that sense such a flight will never lack excuse; but when the new Diana of Imperial Airways has taken up her duties, and is courting along the route once a week in either direction, solitary flights by accomplished young women will fall into the category of channel swimming and motor car reliability trials. Some time in the future the air cruise to Australia may be undertaken in the spirit of holiday rather than of achievement; and when the chase has thus become a procession even the new Diana herself will have been displaced by something still more mechanically efficient—London Times.

Manchurian Army

Japanese Officials Find They Have More Soldiers Than They Need

The problem of what to do about the Manchurian army, now in the uniforms of the state of Manchukuo, is disturbing the Japanese advisers and administrators of the new government.

In the days of Chinese domination an army of more than 300,000 was maintained. This huge force used up more than 80 per cent. of the budget, and in addition unpaid soldiery and regional commanders levied special taxes, seized food supplies without paying for them, and paid nothing for billets.

To-day the army of Manchukuo numbers about 125,000 men, and uses up a little more than 30 per cent. of the budget.

In addition—there are more than 50,000 Japanese soldiers in Manchuria, paid and maintained by the Japanese empire. Originally the Japanese high command in Manchuria figured that the Manchukuo army need not exceed 35,000 to 40,000 men, but the question now is what to do with the extra 85,000 to 90,000 unwanted Manchukuo soldiers. If they are disbanded, as some have been, they return to banditry. Kept in uniforms and in barracks, and subjected to training and discipline, they become restless and a danger. They frequently mutiny. When sent on anti-bandit campaigns they refuse to fight unless interspersed, squad for squad, with Japanese soldiers.

THE MARVEL OF MAN

I thought of man, of his strength and pride
In the wonders he has made;
Of his visions, not to be denied,
And his wild heart, unafraid.

O, the marvel of man in his upward climb!
Since the mist of earth's dim youth
He has toiled with terror and faith
And sublime.

And 't he draws nearer to truth!
There are cities climbing to greet
The skies.

There are conquests of sea and air,
And I gloried in man and his victories
That are fit for a god to share.

He has fashioned his life in lofty
Has dowered it with beauty and fire,
And his toys are fame's trappings
And gaunds and gold;
But love is his heart's desire.

Woman Missionary Has Valued Decorations For Service In China

One of the outstanding delegates who attended the biennial meeting in Montreal of the council executive of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was Dr. Margaret O'Hara, retired missionary, who worked in China from 1896 to 1927.

At the opening session of the meeting the decorations worn by Dr. O'Hara attracted much attention. In 1902 she received from the hand of King Edward the Kaiser-I-Hind medal devoted service during the famine of 1897-1902 in India. From her Alma Mater, Queen's University, she has received the degree of LL.D., and from the W.M.S. a gold medal bearing three bars, in tribute to her work.

Cat's Revenge On Motorist

Near Klagenfurt, Austria, Peter Sussbauer blared his horn at a prim black cat minding across the road in front of his car. The cat swelled its tail, arched its back, crouched, hissed, sprang from ground to running board, to door, to steering wheel, to Peter Sussbauer. Badly scratched and bitten around the neck, Motorist Sussbauer was hospitalized.

Sir Edward Elgar, noted British composer who died last February, left an estate valued at £14,000.

In this wild stranger land.

The stronger be quick to raise
The weaker when they fall;
Let love and peace and patience
Bloom.

In ready help for all.

It is a sad weakness in us after all, that the thought of a man's death hallows him anew to us, as if life were not sacred too, as if it were a light thing to fail in love and reverence to the brother who has to climb the whole tortoise steep with us, and all our tears and tenderness were due to the one who is spared that hard journey—George Eliot.

Would we codify the laws that should reign in households, and whose daily transgression annoys us and degrades our household life, we must learn every day to adorn it with sacrifices. Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices. Temperance, courage, love, are made up of the same jewels. Listen to every prompting of honor.—R. W. Emerson.

Provinces May Take
Winnings of Sweepstakes

Ottawa, July 11—Provincial treasurers will reap the benefit under a bill passed through parliament this session which did away with the "informant" clauses of the criminal code. Under the new law, provincial attorney-generals may take legal action to recover money won in lotteries, instead of the old law which gave any man or woman this right.

The act reads the money shall revert "to the crown" if action is taken against the winner of a lottery, but this has been explained as referring to the provinces who have legal jurisdiction under the British North America act.

Under the new law, discretion is left with provincial attorney-generals whether an action is taken against a lottery winner.

B. H. Green, office expenses.... 11.30
R. Draggings, No. 3..... 6.90
A. Bradley, F. and M..... 13.40
Carried.

Coun. Bowden—That meeting adjourn till 10:00 a.m. Monday, August 13th, 1934, at Kinsella.

Attention is again being drawn to the fact that all applications to consolidate arrears of taxes must be in the hands of the secretary by August 1st, 1934.

B. H. GREEN, Secy-Treas.,
M.D. of Kinsella, No. 42.

Honors to Alberta

As provincial superintendent of scientific temperance instruction for the Alberta Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Nancy G. Parke has just been notified that in the finals of the Dominion poster contest of last year three of our provincial youngsters have captured national prizes. This is the highest number of prizes awarded to any one province. The winners are: Jean Poyer (high school); Jim Quinn (grades 7 and 8); and Anna Patton (grades 5 and 6) all of Calgary. A prominent eastern art club pronounced the posters "excellent." Besides, five other posters and essay contestants of Alberta were awarded "honorable mention." These are Jack McGregor (high school), Calgary; Beryl Hawk (Grades 7 and 8) Parkland; and James Hildicka (Grades 5 and 6) Parkland—for posters; and Olive Gage, Calgary (high school); and George Milne, grade 8, Calgary, for essays.

OTTAWA SPEAKING—

(From Howard Swain, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y.)

A Canadian of Ottawa sends a letter to the editor of Liberty magazine in a current issue. James Lambert, of 340 Coltraine Road, Rockville Park, Ottawa, calls attention to the comparison between European borders and the border between Canada and the United States. He says:

"There are no fortifications—only a wire fence here and there. No fear exists among the people of these two countries, and that is the chief trouble in Europe now. Each country fears its neighbor and if that fear is not eliminated another war is inevitable. I hope European nations before long agree on a treaty similar to that existing between the U.S.A. and Canada in regard to the fortifying of their frontiers."
